PRIMEURS

James SUCKLING (USA)
April 2015 (Primeurs)

This is tight and very, very long with firm tannins and bright fruits. Potentiel is here.
89 - 90/100

Abi DUHR
April 2015 (Primeurs)

Fresh and nervous tannins. Taste of blackberry and raspberries. Rather melted tannins with a good structure. Notes of cedar wood. Dry finish. Granada apple taste and notes of granule of green apple at the end of mouth. Tannins still a bit stiff. Truffle.
88/100

Bernard Burtschy
May 2015 (Primeurs)

A straight and strict version of the château with a good length that will ask for a little of patience. 3-8 ans.
15 / 20

René GABRIEL (Suisse)
April 2015 (Primeurs)

Deep purple, full in the middle, garnet in circumference. Intense and strangely concentrated bouquet. It is dominated by some ripe currant and in background, a little vanilla. In mouth, it becomes rather serious, tannins go on and astringency shows a beautiful potential. Not so sexy than in the hot years, but with very good measures. Drink: 2020 – 2038. 17 / 20

Abi DUHR
June 2015 (Primeurs)

Fresh and nervous tannins, very fruity. Good spicy structure.
Crush.

LA REVUE DU VIN DE FRANCE
June 2015 (Primeurs)

Well proportioned and complete, it possesses some pulp, skillfully extracted. This wine will make a beautiful classic. 14,5 – 15.

THE WINE PATRIOT
Laurent Antoon
June 2015 (Primeurs)

Blackcurrant, floral; velvety mouth, chewy finish (reference vintage for the Chateau).

LIVRABLES

Andreas LARSSON
October 2016

Medium deep red ruby colour. Young nose of red fruit, some wood, leather and dry spices. The palate has medium weight, young acidity, flavours of red currant and cranberry with a mild spiciness, moderate tannin and a medium to long finish.

86/100

Antonio GALLONI
February 2017

The 2014 Lussac is plump, juicy and racy, all qualities that are best enjoyed sooner rather than later, while the inky blue/purplish fruit retains its youthful exuberance. Hints of sweet spice and violet add complexity, but this is in a supple, fruit-driven style.

88/100

Yves BECK
February 2017

Red ruby with garnet reflections. Elegant, complex bouquet, allying very well the ageing and the fruity. Pleasant flavors of strawberry and prune to which come to be added notes of mint. The appetizer is fine, elegant and refreshing. The body is of a juicy type with a liveliness which makes it already accessible. It also has some fat, which makes it smooth. Tannins are already well integrated and in synthesis with the structure. It asks naturally to bloom, but it is a great success. 2018-2028.

James SUCKLING (USA)
February 2017

Nice red fruits aromas and a touch of lemon peel. Quite a tannic and crisp wine, but there's enough fruit to carry it.
